of ghosts, who under the soft rays of the Halloween light and surrounded by the harmonious decorations will indeed make a charming scene.

The program of the evening's entertainment will consist of conundrums and fortune telling and those who know the charming young hostess feel assured that it will prove a very delightful occasion. Refreshments will be served.

The following young people were recipients of invitations: Misses Mary Cartwright, Mae Duncan, Cery Hughes, Myrtle Myers, Bess Walker, Dimple Conover, Nancy Flowers, Messrs. Ewing Stultz, George Montgomery, Fred Hill, Jo Hurt, Tobe Hughes, Tim Cravens and Robt. Todd.

Mr. H. G. Chilson, one of our stirring citizens, has got his crop of millet and peas in the shock. It would appear from the above that Mr. Chilson is on the slow order when it comes to work, but the very reverse is true. He is one of the stirrers and the lateness of his millet harvest was due to the immense amount of work preceding its sowing. The season was highly favorable to late crops and his mixture of peas and millet was almost equal to a wilderness, and the harvest is an abundant one of nutritious food.

Land, Stock and Crops.

The new crop of corn is now being fed and the porkers are taking on flesh rapidly.

A. R. Feese, of Cave Valley, sold to Bright & Fox a spanking pair of mare mules 16 hands, for $350.

Coffey Bros. & Young bought 5 mules ranging in price from $105 to $125, and a saddle horse for $120.

Messie & Chevington sold to Bright & Fox an extra pair of 4 year old mare mules 16½ hands high for $405.

C. C. Stephens purchased 40 acres of land in the Bliss neighborhood, from M. J. Murrell for $17.50 per acre.

Smith & Nell bought of W. T. Walker 2,800 pound steers at 3 cents, and from Conover Bros., 2,700 pound steers at 2½ cents.

The high price paid for mule colts has resulted in nearly every one being sold. It is a rare thing to see one of the long eared tribe following its dam since birth.

After disposing of $3300. worth of mules last week, Coffey Bros. and young still have three stables fairly well filled with the long eared animals. At present there are 45 head capering in their barns and taking corn and oats.

Mr. R. K. Young had the pleasure of delivering 244 head of Adair county cattle in Lebanon, last week, to Fox & Sanders.

If there is a man in all this country who feels happy looking at fine cattle, it is Mr. Young, and in the run of a year his books show that he has bought and sold a big lot of them.

W. H. Gill sold off a part of his surplus property last Saturday at public auction. Two head of horses, one bought by Mr. J. N. Murrell for $61, the other by a Mr. Redman for $40, were the only ones offered. Some young cattle and farm implements were sold at satisfactory prices.

Coffey Bros. & Young sold to Bright & Fox, of Danville, 21 head of extra good mules from 151 to 16 hands high, fat, for $3300. This is probably the best bunch of mules that has been taken from this county for many months.

Fox & Sanders, buyers of cattle, and Bright & Fox, dealers in horses and mules, left the nest sum of $12000. for stock in Adair county last week. Both firms enjoy the confidence of sellers throughout our part of the State and from the prices paid and the sum left with our farmers, their worth to this section is readily seen.

Fix up that small farm and see how soon you will have a buyer. Within the last few weeks we have heard of several people from other counties, who want to buy small farms, well improved, in this county, but when a search is made the places are not found. There are too many large farms neglected and too few small ones to be improved. Sell off a part of your land, if you have more than you can profitably handle, to some good citizen who wants a few acres, and then the county will begin to grow and improve.

Last Wednesday, several of our best farmers delivered cattle in Columbia, and while the bulk of them were from 2 to 3 years old, yet all seemed to be in fine flesh and doing well. From general appearance we took it that the season just closing has been an unusually good one for grazing, but we are informed by the sellers that it had not been up to a good average. There has been plenty of grass but a superabundance of rain, and the grass was too watery to give best results.

Fox & Sanders received the cattle last Thursday at Columbia, that they had engaged of the farmers last Summer. Below we give the parties, number of cattle, weight and prices:

W. B. Rowe & Son, 59 head, 34,395 pounds, at $3.35; J. P. Dohoney, 22 head, 21,728 pounds, at $3.25; H. B. Garnett, 8 head, 9,075 pounds, at $3.35; U. D. Hurt 5 head, 4,900 pounds, at $3.25; W. T. Dohoney, 10 head, 10,036 pounds, 3.25; W. A. Garnett 7 head, 7,470 pounds, $3.25; J. R. Johnson, 12 head, 11,170 pounds, $2.80; J. L. Johnson, 10 head, 9,330 pounds, at $3.25; J. C. Dohoney, 32 head, 32,580 pounds at $3.35; Mont Conover 1,935 pounds at $3.25 and Hurt Bros., 13 head 12,370 pounds, at $3.10 per hundred.

FROM CANANEA MEXICO.

Mr. Editor:—
Will ask for a small space in your paper. No doubt quite a few of my Adair county friends would be pleased to read a letter from me in your paper.

I came to Cananea in the month of February. This is a mining camp—a copper proposition, the largest of its kind in the world. It has made itself in the past five years. In 1900 its population was zero, to-day it is 20,000, but the camp has one of the greatest mining men behind it the world has ever produced, Col. W. C. Green, who is president of the company. This company is styled the Cananea Consolidated Copper Co., and to-day has enough ore blocked out to run the smelter 100 years.

The smelter is the latest improved and its capacity for making copper is three cars per day. To-day copper is selling at 17 cents per pound. Each car-load is worth $10,000 in gold. It costs the company $10,000 per day, which is their actual expense.

The little city of Cananea winds its way beneath the high top peaks for nine miles, but transportation is good—can catch an electric car most any way you want to go. Because this camp is in Mexico you mustn't think for a minute that it isn't civilized. We have colleges, churches, and libraries and lots of pretty senoritas, who will make a man put a smile on his mug if he is from Kentucky.

I am happy to know Columbia is building up so fast, am sure it has made quite a change in the past six years. I think Gradyville is a back number since she lost her oil well, but perhaps Billy Wilmore will make it natural gas, as he puts up a pretty good letter. Hoping to see old Adair soon, I am yours truly,
R. A. Walker.

RUSSELL SPRINGS.

The Teachers' Association held here last Saturday was a success. A good program was responded to by the teachers as well as by many others of our town.

Rev. George Dehart has purchased the property of C. F. Dunbar and will take possession soon.

Dr. Hovious is with us again after a vacation of a few weeks.

Touching Tender Spots.

BY FARAWAY MOSES.

The human mind is formed a good deal like the human body. It seems to have a skin on it; a skin that is tough and calloused in some places and tender in other places. Sometimes, too, the epidermis seems to rub off, and when you touch these raw places on the average mind the owner just fairly squalls.

I have likewise noticed that when a man has a bald spot on the top of his head, you can touch a hairless spot on his mind by poking fun at the surface bald spot. But some men's consciences, and consciousness, and entire mental apparatus have been put in training and have exercised so long and hard and arduously that there is a calloused sort of dry skin covering their whole mental machines, and you can't find a tender spot anywhere that will respond to the touch of the finger of scorn and shame. These men make good statesmen or judges of sweat shop industry, or Philadelphia politicians.

I was commenting on this idea in the shoe shop one day, and Looney Doffer said he thought men were growing worse every year. He said a long time ago men were pure and honest and virtuous and holy and consistent and noble and merciful and generous and charitable—

"When was dot periodical consumption?" remarked the cobbler, as he cut a hard piece of leather to trim it down to the proper shape and proportion of a half sole, and twisted his mouth to suit each angle of the knife as he laboriously followed the line. If a stranger could have seen his face through a window, ignorant of what he was doing with his hands, his first impression would have led him to believe the Dutchman was dying of a convulsive fit, superinduced through great mental strain or acute indigestion.

"When was dot time when mens was shritically homesht and meafull and holy accordingly?" he enquired again, as he stopped cutting a moment to rest his face. "Oh, a long time ago," replied Looney, sort of hesitatingly, and looking around the crowd for help.

Sampson was a good man, and a big husky feller, too. So was Joseph, and George Washington, and Thomas Jefferson, and Henry Clay, and Grant, and Abe Lincoln, and Solomon, and David, and Bunker Hill, and Adam, and Moses, and Elijah, and Elishah, oh if there ever was a bully good fellow it was Elishah. He could perform miracles—

"But how about those poor little children that the she bears tore up after? Elishah cursed them?" inquired Professor Dadd. "I think there were 42 of them. And Elishah seemed to enjoy their torture and death hugely—

"Durn 'em they deserved all they got!" exclaimed Mr. Doffer. "They made fun of Elishah's bald head, durn 'em! They was sassy brats, the hull durn gang of 'em, and Elishah was justified in havin' the bears eat 'em alive!"

Dunkleheimer had gotten up from the bench and was getting a paper of tacks from a shelf just over Looney Doffer's head, and when that gentleman had finished his defense of Elishah the cobbler lifted Doffer's hat up and allowed his balditude to come out at us like the evil spirits of famine grinning at the peasantry of Russia, and the cobbler laughingly remarked:

"Dot balditude beezness was a tender shot mit Looney, and consequently he was in sympathy longitudinal similitude mit Elishah and his she bears, consequently. Baldheaded men of one feder generally flock together on der front seat of dot pink stocking-legged show, fur ink, which was likewise some spots including." He playfully patted Doffer on his wide expanse of baldness and continued: "Looney you should buy soom of those rewersible pants dot was double-breasted mit two decks, sose you could wear them op side down when you took your hat off mit shpontanous hettikett, faccordidly."

Looney snatched his hat out of the cobbler's and pulled it so far down over his ears that those innocent organs lapped down like the leaves of a club-rooted cabbage stalk, and flounced out of the shop with the angry vim of a defeated candidate going home to scold his wife and discharge the hired man.

"That's the way it goes!" exclaimed Professor Dadd: "When you touch an honest person's tender spot he goes off mad. They haven't practiced hypocrisy long enough to hide their anger. Successful men have made a study of how not to whine when their tender spot is touched. They are like the old veteran who practiced several years how to grin and bear it while thrusting a needle into his leg. When he got so accustomed to it that he could thrust the long needle in to the bone without the least sign of a wince or a contortion of pain, he began to doctor for paralysis, previous to applying for increase of pension. He insisted that his liver limbs were paralyzed, and his home physician prodded him in the place his wife suggested, and he never winced or changed color."

"But when they took him before the Pension board the inquisitive doctors stripped him naked and gave him a thorough examination, and when it came to the needle test the doctor made preparations to prod him in the spot indicated by the helpless patient, and the old soldier was bracing himself for the shock, when another infernally mean doctor prodded the victim's other leg with the point of a red-hot pyrographic needle. He touched a tender spot unawares, and the yell that spouted out of that old soldier loosened the screws in the lath and; and in his struggles, he lifted the other leg—the trained leg, and accidentally touched that infernal red-hot needle, and a fresher and louder yell escaped from his hypocrisy, and also from his vocal box. And the spanking those playful doctors gave him with their open hands cured him so completely in about two minutes that he went home on foot, while his two friends took turns in carrying the stretcher over their shoulders until they got outside of town, when they threw it into the river, and ran on to overtake the paralytic soldier who had been so miraculously cured, but who was still as mad as the very devil."

"Well, said Careadem Hooter, 'there is a tender spot on the average man's polityties, too. He will jine in with you in condemning the Trusts and the system of graft and political rottenness, and swear and cuss louder than you ever did; but when you internate that the Trusts have all grown up durin' the last 50 years, and that the Republikin party has bin in power all that time, except the eight years of Clevelandism, that man will fly up and call you a goat—"

"Und you was a goat, to, by dam it!" exclaimed the cobbler. "Now you has touched a raw sheep on Dunkleheimer, in accordance! You kin not blame all our political nastiness on der Reppolikin party. She kin not hellep it. Dhem Trusts growed on dot party like soom cancers on a men's faces. At first she expected it was a moskeeter bites, or a phlyder bites, and she scratched it mit vociferous raspiration, and tickled it mit der finger of kindness accordingly, und purdy soon dot cancer was bigger ass der face-walwoy of dot party."

"Und dot Trusts cancer et und et until she et der whole face away. She et der eyes out, und der nose off, und ears off. Und when Clover Grieveland was der president he exclaimed dot she was only a moskeeter bite, and he tickled it under der chin and said she was alright. Und all dot time dot Trusts cancer et und away, und et der eyes und ears und nose off from our poople officials mit exasperating promptitude, und now nobodies holding poople office can see or hear or smell what was going on, because his face-walwoy was et away und he was a choomp."

"But the Trusts are not only eating up our public officials—they are eating up everybody!" exclaimed Professor Dadd. "And what shall we do with them? What is the cure?"

"Dot was mit my tender sheek Meester Datt. I was already et. I has been et op long ago. You see, while our poople officials was tickling dem Trusts under der chin und calling it a moskeeter bite, dem Trusts was tickling me under der chin und calling me soom tid-bit bites, accordingly; und before I knowed anythings mit amphibious gromptitude I was shwollered down wholeale und my tender spot went headforemost mit exasperating longitudinal imbecility, including!"

"Hush," whispered Joel Jiggerbob; "here comes Mrs. Wartnoggle and we will hear all about the shortcomings of her husband. I can tell by the tilt of her nose that sh's mad."

"But, mind you, warned Professor Dadd, if any of you join in and help her abuse old Wartnoggle you will touch a tender spot in the old woman, and she will roast you good and plenty. It is one of the peculiarities of human nature. We abuse our friends when we feel like it, but if a stranger tries to help us along with our abuse we turn on him and roast him for his pains and—"

"Goot morgan, Meeses Wartnoggle," was the cobbler's cheerful greeting, as that lantern jawed lady flounced into the shop. "Sot down—excuse der company I was keeping—what kin I do fur you?"

"I jist wanted to see how much our bill is, and, mebbey, git a pair of new shoes, if you'll trust me. Indeed, I couldn't blame you if you refused to give me credit, for that man, Ezzy Wartnoggle, is doin' wuss and wuss every year. Along with his laziness and idleness and general worthlessness, he's got to drinkin' wuss and wuss every year. His word isn't worth any more than his nose, and all the property he's got that hasn't got a mortgage on it is, that ole mule and cart, and they are both too old to eat hay. If it wasn't for the disgrace I'd git a divorce from the old reprobate and leave him to shift for himself."

"Last week he struck me. He came home drunker'n bileed owl and wanted me to pull off his boots and put him to bed. He said he was Mary's little lamb, and had to git up early in the mornin' to be the queen of May; and when I pulled his nose to wake him out of his delirium he hauled off and smote me on the jaw and called me an old cat, and then sat on me till I hollered murder—"

"He was a soon-of-a-gun!" exclaimed the excited cobbler. "He should be in chail. A men like dot would shael sheep and rob a grafeyard, accordingly. Der dirty dog. Der low down nigger shackass what he iss! Der dam—"

He was stopped at this point very abruptly. He had hit the woman's tender spot and she resented the insult to her family by swatting the cobbler over the head with her umbrella. Dunkleheimer looked at her in a dazed way and blinked very fast and ejaculated: "Hell! Was dot you?"

What Women Are Doing.

It is a sign of the times that in many women's organizations the establishment of classes in cooking, sewing, hygiene and sanitation in the home are being freely discussed and earnestly advocated. The evils of ignorance of such matters are so apparent and so appalling to the twentieth century woman, and the almost impossibility of securing, even at high cost, efficient service along these lines which are so necessary to the maintenance of the home life so pressing, that the question has become a problem which engages our very best minds. Whatever the croakers may say about club membership spoiling the home, time will soon show that the organization of women into deliberate bodies for the discussion of the questions of the day are most important movements, prolific of untold good to the isolated sisters who are too burdened or too tired to think out ways and means for themselves, and too weak in influence to push them as individuals. These club women may make mistakes—even our national rulers do that, you know; but their powers are developing in the right direction, and the various organizations are settling down to a "business" basis born of experience and earnest thought.

Alfalfa in Kentucky

HUBERT VREELAND.
JOSEPH E. WING.

During the recent tour through Kentucky of the Alfalfa and Corn Special, conducted by the Department of Agriculture, there was distributed from the train several thousand pamphlets devoted to alfalfa culture in Kentucky. As this subject is attracting such general attention in the State we want to give as general publicity as possible to the teachings of this pamphlet. The pamphlet is too long to publish in one issue of the ADAIR COUNTY NEWS, but we will publish installments from it each week till the entire pamphlet is published. We suggest that those of our readers who failed to obtain copies of the pamphlet preserve the issues of the Farmers Home Journal so they can study the alfalfa question thoroughly and at their leisure.

The body of the pamphlet was prepared by Joseph E. Wing, of Ohio. The following introduction was prepared by Hubert Vreeland, Commissioner of Agriculture:

In presenting this booklet to the farmers of Kentucky we deem it but proper that the Commissioner outline that views of the Department of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics regarding the introduction of alfalfa into the State.

Let it be thoroughly understood in the beginning that this department does not advocate a wholesale sowing of alfalfa until the farmers have made a thorough study of their lands and are reasonably certain that their soil is adapted to the growth of this wonderful forage plant. We are of the opinion that the impression which had gained foothold in the State that alfalfa could not be grown here was due to the failure of a few men to get a stand who sowed some of the seed a few years ago without regard to soil conditions and without having studied the nature of the plant. This bureau does not claim to be infallible in its opinion that alfalfa will prove a boon to the farmers of Kentucky. When human methods must be employed, we realize that there is an element of chance in every undertaking in life. But realizing our responsibility, we have not gone into the matter blindly.

When the present Commissioner was entrusted with the responsibilities of this important department of the State government he realized that it was his duty to get out of the beaten paths and to devise, as far as it lay in his power, ways and means by which the agricultural and live stock interests of the State would be advanced. Appreciating the fact that the word "agriculture" covered such a broad scope that no man could reasonably claim to be an expert in all the various phases of farming, he deemed it expedient that he should put himself in touch with men who have given special crops years of undivided study and to adopt the best and most practical ideas presented. Chief among these were Joseph E. Wing, of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, and Prof. J. N. Harper, then Agriculturist at the Kentucky Experiment Station. The Commissioner of Agriculture went over considerable of the State's territory with these gentlemen, and after noting the conditions carefully, it was unanimously agreed that alfalfa can be grown in many parts of the State, the one thing needful being the dissemination of the proper information. There were already a few thrifty plots in various parts of the State and the State Department of Agriculture sent out some seed for experimental purposes with the result that a number of good stands were secured. The subject of alfalfa culture was discussed at all the farmers' institutes held under the auspices of this bureau. The farmers generally became enthused and the last report of this bureau shows that there are now 3,700 acres of alfalfa in this State as against less than two hundred acres two years ago. This encouraged the department to such an extent that after consulting with Mr. Wing, who is recognized as one of the best alfalfa experts in the United States, and Prof. Harper, who has experimented with the plant for a number of years, it was decided to run a special train over the State giving lectures and disseminating literature especially prepared for the project. This met with the hearty approval of the Advisory Board of the State Department of Agriculture as well as the various farmers' clubs. The Bureau of Agriculture was fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Wing as the principal lecturer on alfalfa.

It might be interesting to the farmers of the State to know that there is now a field of one hundred acres within less than a mile of Frankfort. A sample from this field measuring five and one-half feet in length is now in the office of the Commissioner of Agriculture. There is another field of thirty acres a few miles from Frankfort.

In a letter from Mr. W. T. Kane, Fallsburg, Lawrence county, Ky., the writer reports that his alfalfa is in a good, thrifty condition and says that his third cutting yielded him 4,240 pounds per acre. "The 'yaller' dirt in which it grew," he continues, "is over 1,100 feet above the sea level and is exactly where the U. S. Geological Survey made a station, 'Kane Knob,' from which, with the aid of glass, hill tops can be seen fifty miles distant."

There are also small plots in Clay and Knox counties and the alfalfa is reported in good condition. In Warren, Henry, Christian, Pendleton, Nelson, Fayette and a large number of other counties alfalfa is being grown with success. Mr. J. J. Botto, of Boston, Nelson county, has grown alfalfa for ten years with a marked degree of success, while Prof. Harper secured three tons per acre from the first cutting from the Experiment Station plot this spring.

We would particularly urge the farmers to be careful in the selection of their seed. But with good seed, true to germination, a good, deep soil with plenty of humus and with the proper attention the first year, the farmers should be able to at least raise alfalfa in sufficient quantity for home consumption.

In addition to the lectures on the culture of alfalfa, the services of Prof. P. G. Holden, of Ames, Iowa, were secured for the special. Prof. Holden has made a specialty of seed corn selection and the cultivation of the cereal with the result that last year he increased the corn crop of Iowa 10,000,000 bushels. He made known his methods by means of a special train which he ran over his State making stops of thirty minutes.

With plenty of corn and good crops of alfalfa, we are of the opinion that Kentucky will eventually take up her former rank among the stock-feeding States of the nation.

Robt. son of the late Judge Caldwell, is critically ill at his home and his host of friends entertain but little hope of his recovery, unless relief comes soon. The physicians do not agree, but indications point to appendicitis.

A literary club was organized at Meadow creek last Friday evening and Mr. R. H. Turner was elected President. The first subject for public debate is, Resolved, "That city life is more productive of ignorance and crime than country life." The exercises will be varied and much interest is already manifested.

Burglars made two raids upon the store and post office at this place last week. Several small articles and a few cents was the booty taken. A repetition of the offense will probably find the contents of a load in the raider's anatomy, as guard is being kept.

Most of our farmers are done sowing wheat. There seems to be a larger acreage than usual. Better seed and fertilizer were used and some of the farmers are experimenting with a few acres. They are making efforts to get a yield of 50 bushels per acre.

Rev. C. M. Chumley has accepted a call to the Bethel and Campbellsville churches. He is attending Synod in Louisville this week. No pastor, of so short an acquaintance, has endeared himself to the people as Bro. Chumley.

Archie Cowherd, of this place, had a bicycle stolen from him a few nights ago, by a stranger that claimed to live in Russell county. Mr. Cowherd made a trip to Russell and spotted the party. A warrant for his arrest is now in the hands of an officer.

The political situation in Taylor is quiet. There are two tickets for city offices but, with the exception of Judge's race, no opposition in the county.

Mr. James Herron sold a lot of 1,390 pound steers to Durham Bros., at 4 cents. Trader is losing on stock engaged a few months ago.

Good calves are bringing five dollars per head and fat heifers 2 to 2½ cents.

Preach prosperity but no visible signs except through the Almighty, who has blessed us with abundant crops.

A sweet potato is on exhibition here that is of the crop of 1904 and 1905. The last year potato was planted and the new potato grew to in Siamese twin fashion. Both potatoes will be planted next year and the party hopes to have a potato grown in three different years.

Mr. Walter Cox, of Mannsville, is very low with complication of diseases. He receives a pension of $48 a month and is a liberal hearted man but does not profess to be a Christian.

John T. Newton has resigned as Jailor of Taylor county and W. T. Berkley was appointed in his stead. Mr. Berkley is the Democratic nominee and will be his own successor.

A CARD.

FELLOW CITIZENS:

The requisite number of my friends have petitioned and had my name placed upon the official ballot as the Democratic nominee for County Judge of Adair county. I take this method of announcing my candidacy for said office, and respectfully solicit your votes. I did not seek this office, but since my friends, of all political parties, have solicited me to become a candidate, I willingly acquiesce, and would thank you for your votes.

If honored with election I promise a faithful discharge of the duties of the office. While I am in line with the progressive spirit of the age, I think that greater economy should be practiced in the financial affairs of the county.

That our taxes are too high most people will concede, and if elected it would be my pleasure to zealously guard the interests of the county in regard to its financial affairs. If elected I would try to administer justice between citizens, without discrimination.

It will be impossible for me to see all the voters, but I am known over the county, and if the people can confide in me sufficiently to make me County Judge, I hope their confidence will not be misplaced.

Respectfully,

W. F. NEAT.

FREE TRAINING OF NURSES.

By the terms of a fund to be administered in connection with the Philadelphia School of Nurses, Witherwood Building, Philadelphia, a number of young women from every county will receive free training in nursing. It is planned to ultimately reach and help in this way every village and township. The young women will be provided with room, board, nurse uniforms and all the refinements of a well-appointed Christian home. At graduation the diploma of the School and the Order of the Red Cross will be conferred, qualifying for practice in any state or county; the railroad fare will then be paid back home. Those applying and chosen to receive the benefits of this fund will be given two years training, with a rich experience in nursing the sick poor of the city under skilled leaders. The term may be shortened to eighteen months by taking a preliminary course of six months' reading and study at home. A special short course enables young women to quickly qualify themselves for self-support and a substantial income. In addition to regular nursing, the young women are taught to preserve their own health; how to recognize, avoid and destroy contagion; how to establish and maintain perfect sanitary conditions about the home; they are prepared for positions as office nurse and physician's assistant; they

Russia is experiencing much trouble with railroad strikes and the situation is alarming.

The men on the Democratic ticket, if elected, will take care of the interests of Adair county in the good old way.

Read Hon. W. F. Neat's statement on 3rd page and then act on your judgment as to the best interest of Adair county.

The editor of The Spectator evidently overstated that which he really did not mean to state in last week's paper, or else there are many sellers in his party.

The secret ballot system is being defended by the dark lantern process. Nearly every voter has received an earnest appeal through a circular letter headed, "The secret ballot in danger," and signed, "Committee on secret ballot." No person's name is signed to the letter—no one game enough to stand pat. Such a way of meeting a great proposition, to say the best of it, is cowardly. The secret ballot may be best, some think so, and if a man so believes he ought to speak out and not take methods of presenting argument in favor of it and conceal his identity. It is more than likely that the above circular letter would lose all of its force if its origin were known. We have never believed in the secret ballot and the secret method of conducting elections. There are many of the same opinion, but if otherwise, would not seek such methods of defending the secret system as the party or parties couched behind the movement to retain it.

It has been charged and generally believed, that Thomas Jefferson was an infidel, or decidedly skeptical, but such an opinion can not be entertained by reading the so-called Jefferson Bible. Recently Mr. M. Rey Yarberry loaned us a copy of that book and it is just to the opposite of infidelity. It is titled "Morals of Jesus, and is purely a compilation of all that Jesus did and said as recorded in Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, in Greek, Latin, French and English, and shows the great theme of love which seems to have inspired and actuated Mr. Jefferson in his life's work. The Jefferson Bible is now the property of the United States. Was purchased this year and may be seen in the National Museum at Washington

The argument in favor of retaining the secret ballot system is overcome by the undisputable facts known to every voter in this State, that there has been more frauds, more contests, more heated, partisan fights and more buying and selling of votes since it was inaugurated than occurred within the State for a hundred years before. The fight in Louisville seems to be over ballots. Both sides are claiming that gigantic frauds will be committed in the coming election, that plans for ballot-box stuffing and ballot stealing are being made. It would appear from the charges that one side are thieves and the other robbers, that after the voters have cast their ballots, results may be changed. Plank it down with this stuffing business and contests and doubtful ballots and the stealing of honestly cast votes. If you favor the old honest system put your "X" in the square opposite the word "Yes."

The insinuations in last week's Spectator that the Democrats had selected J. H. Young and J. A. Diddle to buy up Republicans was not made from facts, neither was it an appeal to the sober sense of the people, but a round-the-corner way of arousing partisan feeling and pitching the present campaign on party lines. There has been no caucus and no prearranged plans for such a movement and our candidates have been selected with better judgment and higher ideals. They are men suited for the positions they seek, and no fair minded man in this county will say otherwise. They are all personally popular, full of energy and responsible. It is this kind of men who should be put in positions of honor and trust whether of our party or the other. The truckling to political prejudice, the strict adherence to party nominees regardless of the adaptability of the office seekers to the positions they must fill, has caused many counties to wag along under heavy taxes and receive but little in compensation.

Largely our ticket does not represent wealth and some of our candidates are men of moderate means, but regardless of money, it is composed of men as good as the party could select, and if elected each station will be well filled. The time has come when men should measure up to the requirements of the position they seek or else be defeated regardless of party affiliation. The Spectator should not seek to arouse party passions merely to gain political ends. It has never yet given reasons why its party should retain control in the affairs of this county but its feeble effort only has been to arouse political passion and line 'em up. Partisan prejudice rarely ever does anything except to lead a man wrong. It never overthrew corrupt methods; it never instituted a reform; it never blessed a country. Its bite is like an asp and its poison like an adder. It arrays neighbor against neighbor, friend against friend. It overthrows peace and good will and installs confusion, disorder and hatred. It saps the life of public spirit and brings ruin where prosperity and happiness should reign. The people of this county are acquainted with the men who are out for office and know the needs of the county.

The candidates are in the saddle.

No one can tell the result of the election or what horse will be the winner—it's largely a game of chance.

The interest in the election seems to be warming up. Mr. M. Rey Yarberry seems determined to have a hand in the scramble as he is telling the people the thing to do.

Gentlemen, it is your duty as good citizens to go to the election next Tuesday and cast your ballot in favor of the men you believe to be best suited for officials of this County. It is also your duty to vote for or against the constitutional amendment permitting a return to the Viva Voce system. Vote as you think best for the good of the State, but vote. Stay-at-home voters never do any thing.

Below we give the latest from Russia which shows that while no blood has been shed, yet, a revolution is on and the Czar has surrendered to overwhelming public sentiment that demands freedom:

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30, 6:05 p.m. To-night the autocracy of the Romanoffs and the old order of things cease to exist in Russia. Emperor Nicholas has surrendered, and Count Witte comes into power as Minister-President, with an imperial mandate which will enable him to convert the farcical National Assembly into a real legislative body, elected by greatly extended suffrage, and to confer on the people fundamental civil liberties, including free speech.

These welcome tidings reached St. Petersburg shortly before 6 o'clock this evening. Count Witte had spent the day with the Emperor at Peterhof going over the final draft of the manifesto, to which he insisted that certain minor modifications be made, and before taking the train for St. Petersburg he telephoned to a friend that the Emperor had affixed his signature and that the imperial mandate, comprising the conditions on which he had agreed to accept office, was in his pocket. These include freedom of the press, the right of assembly, and the immunity of the person, including the right of habeas corpus.

IS SHUT AT LARGE.

The negro, Ben Buckner, who cut Mr. Wm. Brown while the latter was attempting to place him under arrest on the night of October 14, has not been apprehended. The police have been looking for him, but have been unable to find any trace of him. It is believed the negro has left Lebanon. Uncle Billy has about recovered from his injuries, and has resumed his position as night watchman at the Myers-Estes mill—Lebanon Enterprise.

Buckner was formerly a resident of Columbia, the son of Miss Ellen Buckner and left here about two years ago.

Co-operation Meeting.

The Annual Co-operation Meeting of the Christian Churches of Adair County, was held at Mt. Pleasant on last Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The meeting was a success and it was a failure. It was a success so far as the table comforts were concerned, for there was an abundant supply for all the large crowd of people in attendance. It was a failure so far as co-operation of the churches was concerned. Only five or six churches sent delegates, and they brought very meager reports. A majority of the speakers on the program were absent, and their places could not be filled.

For the first time in many years Bro. Z. T. Williams was, on account of sickness, absent. A co-operation meeting without Z. T. Williams will always be a failure—he is the very life of such a cause. Sister Williams, his wife, was on the program, but she also was sick. Bro. Barger, from Russell county, was present and acted as chairman of the meeting, and Ole Taylor made a very efficient secretary. The chairman made some good talks, and Bro. Oeder filled his place on the program, and filled them well. Dr. Taylor gave an address to young Christians, which was well received.

The Saturday afternoon session was mostly filled by answering questions from the query box—the answers were instructive, and sometimes amusing. Before a Co-operation meeting will be successful, all the churches in the county should co-operate. U. L. T.

Some people take the wet route to run from trouble, to fight disease or to dispel gloom, while the only sure path that leads to human hopes and desires has no wet stations, but firm in boyhood, strong in manhood and glorious through all eternity.

The present population of Columbia could support water works, but the rapidity of her growth makes an investment in water-works as safe and much better than government bonds. There will be water works later on.

Rev. F. E. Lewis, the new pastor of the Methodist church, will preach at Toneyville next Sunday morning. Rev. Lewis preached here last Sunday for the first time, and his members realize that they have in him a good pastor and an able minister.—Holzger-Herald.

The grade of work turned out by the Columbia Steam Laundry is all that can be desired and the management deserves the patronage of this section. A few more enterprises and Columbia will be in the forefront in Southern Kentucky.

Mr. J. A. Young, of this city, celebrated his 48th birthday last Thursday. He was the recipient of quite a number of nice presents. Some of them coming from other States. A number of friends and relatives were present to help Mr. Young enjoy the dinner, which was as good as it was attractive.

An interesting article on the growth of Alfalfa in Kentucky will be found on the third page. The article is written by Messrs. Hubert Vreeland and Joseph E. Wing and contains much valuable information on this great, forage crop. It will be collected from week to week until the entire pamphlet is printed.

Dr. Powell will be entertained while in Columbia, by Dr. U. L. Taylor and wife. Mrs. Taylor was before coming to Columbia, a member of Dr. Powell's church at 4th and Walnut Streets, Louisville, and it was largely through her influence that he was induced to come to Columbia at this time.

The cool frosty nights and chilly Autumn days call to mind the fact that the jury has passed to realms of silence, the cricket is heard no more and the Katy did's music has been hushed. It's farewell to "The Good Old Summer Time" and a brace-up against the snows and winds.

Judge W. W. Jones recently purchased a two-horse power Fairbanks, Morse & Co., gasoline engine with pump attachment and also a small saw rig. This engine will displace the wind mill, while the saw will be used for cutting wood. There are a number of farmers who could profitably use an outfit of this kind.

Col John B. Wathen's sale of high bred horses, at his farm near Lebanon was a great success. An unusually large crowd of buyers was present and the prices realized were satisfactory. The sale consisted mostly of the get of Norvin W., a horse that has proven his worth. Prices ranged from $100 for a weanling colt, to $200 for a two year old, an average price being close to $200 for two to three year olds. The entire sale amounted to a neat sum though all the stock did not sell, due to weather conditions which prevented rapid work. Mr. Wathen's effort to advertise and push forward the stock interests of Marion County is meeting deserved success.

The people of Columbia who have heard Dr. Powell preach and lecture are the ones most anxious to hear him in his popular lecture, "Citizenship in the Republic," at the court house, next Thursday evening. The people of Columbia and Adair county never appreciate any thing but the very best, and are to be congratulated on having the opportunity of hearing this great man.

Mr. W. R. Lyon has purchased the interest of Turner Bros. in the business conducted by Turner Bros. & Lyon in Campbellsville and the firm is now Lyon & Bros. Mr. Robert Lyon who has been active and constant in building the business for several years will still have charge of it, while Mr. W. R. Lyon will hold his present position for H. W. Weckind & Co. of Louisville, who own a profitable patronage in this part of the state.

It contains 216 acres, well watered, well improved and plenty of choice timber. I will also sell 3 horses, 6 head of cattle, 9 pigs, corn, oats, hay and farm implements of different kinds, kitchen and household furniture. Terms made known on day of sale. This is your chance for a good farm.

G. A. ATKINS, Administrator.

Last Saturday night at ten minutes after nine o'clock, the spirit of Mr. John Pennington took his flight to the God who gave. For quite a while, Mr. Pennington had been in bad health, and for two weeks his death had been expected every day. He had reached that good old age of 78, and up to a few months ago seemed to enjoy good health. He was a good citizen, upright and honest in his dealings, and a member of the Baptist church. He leaves a wife who has the sympathy of the people in her loss and loneliness. The funeral was preached by Rev. J. P. Scruggs on Sunday, and the body laid to rest in the presence of many friends and neighbors.

The Knoxville Journal and Tribune gives an extended notice of Mrs. Woodruff, of that city, who died of heart failure, in the New Willard hotel, Washington, D. C., on the 17th. Mrs. Woodruff's death was as unexpected as it was sad to her host of friends in her home city, and the mention of her many graces in the above mentioned Journal attest the high esteem in which she was held. We make mention of this death because her husband, Capt. W. W. Woodruff is well known and loved by many in Kentucky and especially the old soldiers who followed him in the struggles of the Civil War, and whose sympathy now reaches him in his sad hours of bereavement. The Journal says: It was in her home where her virtues shone brightest and her sterling qualities were most keenly appreciated. There she was a living light, a loving counselor, a safe guide, a true and faithful help-met to her husband and an affectionate mother. No greater epitaph could be written.

The time to do is when it needs to be done.

It is not our business, but it does seem to us that the approaches to the bridge at Greenburg should be built so that the bridge can be used. Delay will not cheapen its cost but only deprive the people of its use.

Mr. George (Banta) Bryant, of Craycraft, was in town Monday for the purpose of having a tooth extracted. He reports that it took two dentists to perform the work, that is, after one had exhausted his pulling powers, the other by a hard pull and a long pull brought the tooth. Dr. J. N. Murrell was the man who hung on till the tooth turned loose.

The registration in Columbia, including the supplement for last Monday, stands as follows: Democrats 94, Republicans 32, Prohibitionists 3, and Independent 14. It is readily seen that the vote is close between the two great political parties and that the Prohibition vote is yet in its infancy. The Independent vote given to the Republicans would put that party in the lead and if given to the Democrats would make it the king bee. The fact is that the Independents hold the balance of power. Just think of what it if of our citizens could do if they so decide.

We understand that Mr. J. D. Sharp, of Amanda, is a candidate for Magistrate in his precinct in Cumberland county and it affords us pleasure to say that we believe he would make a good official, one who would do his duty to the people. Mr. Sharp is an old Adair county boy, and a man every body in this section likes. We hope that the people in his precinct will elect him. Mr. Sharp has served in this position before which will enable him to do more now than he could if green to the business.

Little Ruby, the bright little seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Baker, of Amanda, died on the 20th, of typhoid fever. All that loving parents and medical attention could do did not stay the cold embrace of death and the loving, tender child passed into the great beyond—a flower in bud, transplanted into the home above. In this sad bereavement the parents share the heart-felt sympathy of many friends.

Masters and Engineers.

In the eyes of all engineers of steamships the deck officers of their ships are profoundly ignorant. Here are some of the stories they tell.

A young mate went into the engine room with a message from the Captain to the engineer. The latter said the other was interested and began to explain things to him. Being a civil and obliging man he made no attempt to tell fairy tales to the stranger, and moreover he kept as clear as possible of all puzzling technicalities. He pointed out the cylinders, the various rods, the eccentrics, the shaft, and so on, explaining roughly the uses of the various pumps and auxiliary machinery, and the mate was genuinely pleased and interested, and said so. Then when going upon deck again, a thought seemed to strike him. Halting on the ladder he called the engineer and explained his difficulty. Thanks, awfully, for showing me 'round, Mac. You've made the whole thing as plain as a pikestaff. But one thing I don't exactly grasp. What are your boilers for? The engineer promptly replied; "Why to keep the firemen from wearying you idiot!"

A burly, thick-headed skipper had been given the command of a little steam collier. Going up with great pride onto the bridge of his new ship, the first thing that caught his eye was the engine-room telegraph.

"What's that for?" She demanded.

"Why, that goes down to the engine room," was the reply, "You see all the orders on it. 'Full speed,' 'Half,' 'Slow,' 'Stop.' You just have to move the handle."

The old man was charmed.

"If I put the handle to Stop will she stop ganging?"

"Certainly."

The old man was still more charmed. Finally, after thinking some time, he heaved a sigh of pleasure.

"Why, that's fine, man! That's clever! That does away with all them saucy devils o' engineers!"

Eggs in Winter.

I think there are many factors that enter into the production of eggs in Winter, any one of which if lacking, is apt to lessen the yield. In the first place we must have fowls that are at laying maturity when Winter comes; pullets that have reached their full size and hens that are in condition to lay all through moulting and not too fat.

I have found very little difference in Winter laying qualities of Plymouth Rocks, Langshans and Leghorns under conditions favorable to each breed. Leghorns will produce eggs at a less food cost, but require better house conditions and must not be allowed to run out in the cold and wet. The hens or pullets must be from a laying strain and every detail of housing, feeding and care well looked to in order to secure Winter eggs.

I shall not discuss methods of feeding, as this subject has been fully treated, but in order to bring hens to laying in Winter requires considerable care. Yet proper feeding is not the whole thing. Other requirements must be met or the best food in the world will not make hens lay. The neglect of seemingly unimportant matters will often greatly lessen, and sometimes completely check, laying.

It hens are not protected they will burn the food up to keep warm, will not exercise as much as is necessary, consequently will not lay. They must be protected from cold winds; have plenty of fresh air and sunshine, dry, clean, quarters and scratching material with which to keep themselves busy. A bundle of straw for them to scratch in brings as good returns for its cost as the same amount of money expended in a different way. Exercise converts the carbon in the food into heat, and thus it is utilized, leaving the material from which the egg is formed; while without exercise in cold weather, much more food—in fact more than the hen can eat—is required to keep up the heat of the body and make an egg; hence the hen does not lay. Water is necessary as over sixty per cent. of an egg is water, so the hen must have an abundant supply, and it should not be allowed to freeze. Cor., Rural World.

Judge J. P. Hobson, of the Court of Appeals, who will be a candidate for re-election, can go before his people with an enviable record on the bench of our highest court. He is a tireless and indefatigable worker and the records of the court show that he has written more decisions than any of the Judges, many of them in the most important cases. Those who know say he works with a rapidity and precision rarely equalled, and that he carries into his work a breadth of legal learning that makes his opinions forcibly expressed and convincing. Judging by the newspapers in Judge Hobson's district there is a unanimity for his re-election that insures no opposition to him within the Democratic party, and when he receives his party's nomination there will be little chance of Republican opposition of a nature to imperil his success. —Kentucky State Journal.

Saved By Dynamite.

Sometimes a flaming fire is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and laryngitis. At T. E. Paul's drug store, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Woman's Superiority.

Prof. Chamberlain, of Clark University has figured out that women have a whole lot more ability than men. Following is his list:

"As an actor she has greater ability and more frequently shows it.

"She is noticeably better in adaptability.

"She is much more charitable in money matters.

"Under reasonable opportunities she is more gifted at diplomacy.

"She has greater genius in politics.

"She more commonly has executive ability.

"Her hearing is more acute.

"Her imagination is greater.

"Her intuitions are greater.

"Her memory is better.

"Her patience is greater.

"Her perceptions are more rapid.

"She has greater religious devotion.

"Her instinct for sacrifice is greater.

"She bears pain more heroically.

"Her sympathy is greater.

"She has more tact.

"She has more acute taste.

"She has greater vitality.

"She has more fluency in the lower forms of speech."

Detailed For Baptism.

During the Civil War, the late Colonel Gabe Bouck organized a regiment, which he controlled as a dictator. It was while the army was resting after Colonel Gabe's first campaign that an itinerant evangelist wandered into camp and, approaching the colonel asked if he was the commanding officer.

"Ugh!" snorted "Old Gabe," as he was affectionately called, "what do you want?"

"I am a humble servant of the Lord endeavoring to save the souls of the unfortunate. I have just left the camp of the —th Massachusetts, where I was instrumental in leading eight men into the paths of righteousness.

"Adjutant," thundered Colonel Bouck, after a moment's pause, "detail ten men for baptism. No — Massachusetts regiment shall beat mine for piety. —Everybody's Magazine.

Terrible Race with Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and to-day I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at T. E. Paul's drug store; price 50c.

FALL PLOWING, MANURING AND ROTATION.

On a considerable portion of the farms of New England it will be found the better way to do as much of the plowing in autumn as circumstances will permit. The weather is usually suitable, the teams in good condition and the farmer can take time to do the work in the best manner without being in a hurry.

Where the plowing is properly done, there should be no need for repeating the operation in the spring. Fall plowing allows of the seeding being done considerably earlier in the Spring, and that is usually of much importance.

Good plowing is of the first consideration in the profitable production of crops. It is really the foundation on which the other work is to be done, hence the necessity for doing it well.

If there are stones or other obstacles in the way of good work being performed, then it will be policy to remove them as far as this is practicable.

Now about the manure; shall it be applied on the surface or plowed under? That will largely depend on circumstances or the condition of the manure to be applied.

Time was when the writer was of the opinion that all the manure possible should be spread on the surface and harrowed in, and that was largely the practice for years.

But somehow in the changes being made in methods upon the farm, it is being found that manure plowed under gives the best results in the largest crops. If the manure is coarse or strawy, turning it under gets it out of the way in cultivating the crops, and that is quite an object.

While this is being written a large amount of horse manure is being drawn and spread on grass land that is to be plowed this fall and planted in corn another spring. This field in the order of rotation has been mown three years, and the last crop must have been two tons to the acre. It seems almost too bad to turn over such a sward but we can not very well do otherwise, and the thick sod must be full of vegetable matter that will go some way in helping to fertilize the soil for a good crop of corn another year.

Where a large amount of corn is grown rotation will be found particularly necessary. In our own case corn is grown the first year for silo and the following year grain is sown and the land seeded to grass, where it remains for three years, when the process is repeated.

By following this course there is little time for the grass to run out and good crops of hay are the rule from year to year. On some farms it will do to keep land in grass much longer, but in our case there is only land enough for this five year rotation. By it we find that more hay is produced of a better quality as there is more clover and the soil is increasing in fertility. —Ex.

Dropsically Ill.

Do not, by neglect, allow yourself to become critically ill, as you may very easily do by not nipping the early symptoms of stomach or liver trouble in the bud. There is only one safe, scientific and certain curative treatment for all these disorders of the digestive organs, and that is Dr. Caldwell's (laxative) Syrup Pepsin. Try it. Sold by Dr. J. N. Page, of Columbia, and R. B. Wilson, of Cane Valley, at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

Old screen wire that has passed the useful stage as fly protection comes handy when making small individual coops. It can often be made to do two years' service in keeping out rats and other vermin of chicken coops.

While most swine raisers believe in the range for hogs, they are inclined towards some of the sown crops, such as rape and oats, rather than to the regulated grass pasture of mixed growth. There is no doubt that rape and oats, or rape alone, makes a good pasture for swine, if they are not turned on it too soon. A good general plan is to wait until the rape is, say, eight or nine inches high before the swine are turned in.

Science Pitted Against Disease

Is abating typified by that of Dr. Caldwell's (laxative) Syrup Pepsin, against all disorders of stomach, liver and bowels. Caldwell, after many years devoted to special investigation of this great subject. Its wonderful success in the quick and permanent cure of all these distressing diseases, has made its name, all over the country, synonymous with health. Try it. Sold by Dr. J. N. Page, of Columbia, and R. B. Wilson, of Cane Valley, at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.
